DESIGN

LOFTY Goals

A sophisticated, contemporary aesthetic commingles with location-specific accents in this space by designer Lauren Czarniecki of Czar Interiors. Having tired of living in Miami, her clients were looking for a place where they could indulge their passion for golf when they weren't at their North Carolina mountain home; they fell in love with this ocean-view Delray Beach condo that allows them access to the Seagate Country Club and its championship 18-hole course. Czarniecki sought to evoke a New York loft feel for the living area but infuse it with Florida style. Rather than a dark and moody ambience, she opted for light and airy, with the addition of a painted brick wall for texture. She incorporated ochre tones and blue hues throughout, as seen in statement pieces such as a Roche Bobois chair and an Ironies by Jerry Pair side table, as well as in more subtle detailing, like the blue welting on the bespoke Baxter sofa. Czarniecki's favorite elements, however, are the custom-made coffee tables. "I had a lot of fun selecting the slab—which has a lot of color and movement in it—and loved creating the amorphic design templates with our fabricators," she says. "They turned out gorgeous." Delray Beach (czarinteriors.com)
